Position:

English for Academic Purposes Instructor

Course: Research Writing for Graduate Students

The English Language Centre is looking for a qualified instructor for a 30-hour non-credit academic writing course at the Fort Garry campus.

The Research Writing for Graduate Students course is designed to teach writing skills to graduate students whose first language is not English. This course is enrolment dependent.

Qualifications

Successful Candidates must have:

- TESL Certificate or Equivalent.
- Excellent communication skills.
- Background in teaching writing for academic purposes
- Currently enrolled in or completed Post-Graduate Studies

*Preference will be given to those candidates who have previous EAL/EAP experience.

Course Description:

Students practice writing and analyzing discourse patterns common in graduate level writing. Students study genres of their discipline in order to better appreciate the nature of research writing. Students also examine vocabulary and grammatical structures common to academic writing, as well as develop editing skills.
